■ 10. PRIMER COMENTARIO — fijar nada más publicar (inmediatamente) ■

3 reasons. Same result every payday.

Alex didn't need more willpower. He needed one decision made on a Tuesday — before the salary arrives, before the dopamine fires, before Reason 1 depletes the tank.

Which of the 3 reasons costs you the most? Drop the number below.

■ 11. REDDIT — publicar 1h después de que el vídeo esté live ■

r/personalfinance — Primero — ahorro automático, muy activo

r/BehavioralEconomics — +30 min — Baumeister + Schultz + Kahneman

r/psychology — +30 min — ego depletion / radish experiment

r/cogsci — +30 min — dopamine at expectation / Schultz

TÍTULO REDDIT (r/BehavioralEconomics / r/psychology):

Baumeister (1998) proved willpower depletes with every decision — not just financial ones. Schultz proved dopamine fires at expectation, not at spend. Kahneman and Deaton found behavioral traps consume the same % of income at $50K as at $150K. Three separate findings. One result every payday. (Short video mapping all three and the only structural fix that works)

TÍTULO REDDIT (r/personalfinance):

Thaler and Benartzi found that one structural decision — automatic redirect made once — took workers from saving 3.5% to 13.6% in 5 years. No budgets, no willpower. The key insight: the decision has to happen on a Tuesday, not a Friday. Mapped the 3 reasons why Friday never works. (Short video)

■ 13. NOTAS DE OUTLIER — por qué este título y este hook ■

→ TÍTULO: '3 Reasons Your Brain Spends Every Payday' — VIDIQ 85 pts. Fórmula 181× validada por outliers.

→ FÓRMULA: '[Number] [Things] That [Negative Consequence] (Without Telling You)' — número + curiosity gap.

→ HOOK BEAT 1: Identity-first — 'Every payday. Same result.' Espectador se reconoce antes de entender el mecanismo.

→ IDENTITY CLOSE: 'The programs are not broken' — cierre no moralista = mayor retención hasta el final.

→ CTR TARGET: >6% en primeras 48h. Retention at 30s: >45%. Retention at midpoint: >50%.
